Basic Rules of Baseball

Teams consist of nine players and these players take turns fielding and at batting. The home team fields first and bats second.

An inning consists of batters from each team taking their turn at batting until three batters are out. A game lasts for nine innings, but is extended into extra innings if the scores are level. However in DBA Under 12s the game is played for 1.5 hours or 7 innings, whichever is sooner.

The fielding side consists of a pitcher, catcher, four infielders and three outfielders.

The pitcher throws overhand, using a variety of deliveries from the pitchers plate to the catcher at home plate.

An opposing batter attempts to hit the pitches and then get on base. The fielders attempt to get the batter out through various plays including forced plays, tag outs and catching fly balls.

A batter, who misses three legitimate pitches, or fails to swing at three judged hittable by the umpire, is out on strikes. However, if the pitcher throws four pitches outside the strike zone, the batter obtains a base on balls, and gets a walk to first base.

A run is scored every time a batter becomes a runner and crosses home plate after touching each base in the prescribed order, ie, to 1st to 2nd to 3rd to home plate without going out.

When the fielding team gets their opponents three batters (or runners) out, the teams swap roles.

If the score is level after nine innings, play continues into extra innings until one team has scored more than the other in an equal number of turns at bat. However in DBA Under 12s which ever team has more runs at the end of 1.5 hours, as long as it is even innings, wins.
